Army Transformation News

The 25th Army Science Conference, "Transformational Army Science and Technology - Charting the Future of Science and Technology (S&T) for the Soldier." Army AL&T Online. June 2006. Transformation of the U.S. Army is articulated in Call to Duty - 230 Years of Service to Our Nation, and The Army Vision: Relevant and Ready Landpower in Service to the Nation. (www.army.mil/calltoduty/). In addressing the importance of S&T to this vision, these Army strategic documents stress that the key to Army transformation is the fielding of Future Combat Systems technologies. http://204.255.139.236/clients/asc/web/dev/pubs/alt_online/article.cfm?iID=0606&aid=01

Army Reorganizes its Command and Headquarters Structure. AUSA. 13 June 2006. The Army is reorganizing its commands and specified headquarters to accelerate the momentum of ongoing transformation efforts and increase the Army's responsiveness globally and at home. In an additional step toward modularity, the new structure identifies three types of headquarters: Army Commands, Army Service Component Commands and Direct Reporting Units... <http://www.ausa.org/webpub/DeptHome.nsf/byid/JSUR-6QQJEX>

Military Transformation Studies. Center for Technology and National Security Policy (CTNSP). The CTNSP has taken the lead on Military Transformation. Military Transformation goes beyond mere force modernization. It is a strategy for discovering new sources of power and greater capabilities in the way forces are organized, trained, equipped and employed. It is also about transforming defense management to reduce cycle times and burdensome processes in ways that free up a wealth of creative thinking within DoD. http://www.ndu.edu/ctnsp/military_transformation.htm

AAC Transformation News

Name change for the Acquisition Support Center (ASC). A name change was recently approved for ASC. The organization previously named ASC, changes to the U.S. Army Acquisition

Support Center (USAASC) in order not to cause confusion with the creation of the Army Materiel Command's (AMC) Army Sustainment Command (ASC) at Rock Island Arsenal, Illinois.

New Command to Improve Logistics Management. Army AL&T Online. July 2006. By Michelle McCaskill. To streamline end-to-end logistics in support of the Army's modular force, the Army recently approved the establishment of a new subordinate command under the AMC. The change transforms AMC's Army Field Support Command (AFSC) at Rock Island Arsenal, IL, to the ASC. The AFSC has already begun its transition to the ASC with a ceremonial activation set for this fall... http://204.255.139.236/clients/asc/web/dev/pubs/alt_online/article.cfm?iID=0607&aid=01

2006 Acquisition Education, Training and Experience/Acquisition Tuition Assistance Program (AETE/ATAP) Catalog. The updated July 06 AETE/ATAP catalog outlines those opportunities that will assist Acquisition, Logistics and Technology (AL&T) Workforce members in attaining career progression in accordance with the Acquisition Career Development Plan. The Army continues to be fully committed to the functional and leadership development of the AL&T Workforce; however, you are the best manager and advocate for your own career. AAC Transformation Initiatives

Since the May 06 Transformation MILDEP Update, there are only nine remaining AAC Transformation initiatives. With due diligence, we expect to have them all "Processed For Closure" no later than the end of September. The AAC Transformation Cell is working in concert with selected Transformation Project Leads to develop a process/system for tracking transformation initiatives/programs that warrant periodic reporting to our senior leaders, i.e. Civilian Operational Experience Program; Competitive Development Group – Army Acquisition Fellowship (CDG-AAF), formerly know as CDG; and Executive Leadership Program. In future articles, we contemplate providing extracts of approved statistics and analytics. For additional information on these and other transformation initiatives, contact the POCs listed on our AAC Transformation Web page on the U.S. Army Acquisition Support Center portal at <http://asc.army.mil/portal.cfm>.
