

TRAINING WITH INDUSTRY

Take your Army Acquisition Corps career to the next level by learning industry best practices. The experience will last a lifetime.

Training with Industry (TWI) develops Army Acquisition Officers (Majors/O4s) using higher-level management techniques through industry best practices. Participants then directly apply these practices to improve their follow-on acquisition programs.

Common Post-Program Views from Participating Officers:

TWI provides a great challenge and an opportunity to broaden abilities and improve knowledge of best practices essential for defense acquisition professionals.

Being involved in industry firsthand allows you to learn "their" language and better understand industry priorities - in turn, giving you a different perspective and making you a better informed and competent acquisition leader.

TWI is an incredibly powerful broadening assignment. The experience is invaluable.
